

CURRENT WEATHER

82° / M/SUNNY
» More weather
» CITY HALL CAM

Today is September 24, 2010

Search past 30 days (free)

Site search

Home News Deaths Opinion Sports Money Entertainment Publications/Sites Classifieds Advertise Reader Services | Login / Register

Keep your car. Trade your loan. A 2nd Chance Car Loan could SAVE $100, $150 OR MORE per month! Digital Federal Credit Union NCUA Get a Savings Quote

SHARE Larger text Smaller text Print this article Email this article

Tuesday, September 21, 2010

Worcester Roots Project team wins award for student information video

By Richard Duckett TELEGRAM & GAZETTE STAFF
rduckett@telegram.com

Add a comment

WORCESTER — The Worcester Roots Project's youth team, Toxic Soil Busters Co-op, has won the top award for "Student Information Video" in the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's national "Faces of the Grassroots: Environmental Justice Video Contest."

Members of the team, including 16-year-old Sergio Castillo, the Toxic Soil Busters Co-op video coordinator, will go to Boston Thursday to receive the award at the EPA's New England headquarters.

The five-minute short film, "A Worcester EJ Story," shows the intent and work of the Toxic Soil Buster Co-op, and the efforts of one team member in particular — Janice Serrano. Environmental issues looked at include the high levels of lead in the soil in Worcester, the dangers of lead poisoning, and what the teenagers are doing about it.

The award includes $500 cash, which will be invested back into the project to make more documentaries.

Add a comment

Wachusett Mountain Century Passes
Rates Go Up After October 13th Don't Delay... Click Today
Image of a child in winter gear

WorcesterWorks.com monster TOP JOBS

TRAILER SERVICE Utility Trailers of NE is looking for mechanics at ...

CORPORATE PURCHASING MANAGER Polar Beverages, one of the nation's ...

Infant Toddler teacher and Lead Infant Toddler Teacher The Guild of St. ...

Site Coordinator: The Guild of St. Agnes in Worcester is hiring a part ...

BLANCHARD OPERATOR, Minimum 5 yrs experience needed, must be able to ...

CITY DRIVERS ABF Freight System, Inc. has immediate openings for casual ...

Bookkeeper PT for busy, fast